On that same day two of Jesus' followers were going to a village named Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem, and they were talking to each other about all the things that had happened. As they talked and discussed, Jesus himself drew near and walked along with them; they saw him, but somehow did not recognize him. Jesus said to them, "What are you talking about to each other, as you walk along?" They stood still, with sad faces. One of them, named Cleopas, asked him, "Are you the only visitor in Jerusalem who doesn't know the things that have been happening there these last few days?" "What things?" he asked. "The things that happened to Jesus of Nazareth," they answered.

- Luke 24:13-19a (The Good News Translation)

There are a number of Walt Disney movies that I could watch over and over again. I think the reason that I love them so much is that they seem fresh and new each time I put them in the DVD player. One of my all-time favorites is the orchestral classic Fantasia, which has the power to entrance me with the vivid richness of both the music and the animation. I just love it. The rest of my family tolerates the film, but I feel this magnetic pull to Fantasia that I almost can't describe. It touches me at a level that is much deeper than I had anticipated the first time I saw this movie twenty years ago.

One of my favorite parts is at the end of the film where Disney has contrasted, to use his words, "the sacred versus the profane" in the last musical scene. It begins with the score from Night on Bald Mountain by Modest Mussorgsky overlaid on visions of demons and creatures of the dark cavorting and in frenzied abandon as they take over the earth. Then, the scene ends with these dark powers being driven away by the light of pilgrims with lanterns seeking out the rising sun to the accompaniment of Ave Maria with Franz Schubert's score. I am continually amazed at the emotions that stir in my heart as I watch the darkness give way to the light.

I have this same sense of wonder when I reflect on what God did for us during Holy Week. Jesus succumbed to utter humiliation, contempt and derision. He died one of the worst deaths that I can imagine and suffered at the hands of evil. But just when we believed that evil had won, Jesus showed that the power of love can overcome anything. So, as the sun was rising on that very first Easter Sunday, Jesus was not in the tomb. Jesus was alive. Jesus is alive. The darkness can never win because it will never overcome the Light. The Light is with us always and forever.

He is risen! He is risen, indeed!

May the joy of Easter fill you again,

Pastor Tom

KIDS' KORNER

Good Morning!

News from Lower Sunday School!!!

In the Lower Sunday School (K-grade 3), we have been revisiting places and people Jesus met. We role-played many parables, met friends or believers of Jesus, and learned that Jesus truly loved the little children. The lessons are reinforced through songs, skits, and little books the children made to take home. Now, we are entering a most holy time - Holy Week. Again, the lessons will be supplemented in many ways so the children learn by doing and singing. Easter will be very special for us - I won't say anything else - but it will be quite an adventure. During the remainder of April, we will study things and people Jesus gave to us.

Blessings for a wonderful spring.
Ms. Marlene

This year, we have been blessed with a wonderful group of tutors, a great kitchen staff, and a terrific group of children. We have been able to create amazing crafts, make good candy and cookies, study for spelling tests, and READ!! This is due to the work of so many folks. There are only a few weeks left of Kids' Café until the fall. Time does go by too quickly!!!

Ms. Marlene

Laity Enlightenment

April Fools! Have you played an April Fools' joke on anyone lately? Or maybe you've been made to feel like the fool? There are many theories about the origin and history of April Fools' Day. When I Googled it, I found that one explanation was provided by a professor of history at Boston University, Joseph Boskin. The Google entry of the origin of April Fools' Day reads, "Prof. Boskin explained that the practice began during the reign of Constantine, when a group of court jesters and fools told the Roman emperor that they could do a better job of running the empire. Constantine, amused, allowed a jester named Kugel to be king for one day. Kugel passed an edict calling for absurdity on that day, and the custom became an annual event. "In a way," explained Prof. Boskin, "it was a very serious day. In those times, fools were really wise men. It was the role of jesters to put things in perspective with humor." This explanation was brought to the public's attention in an Associated Press article printed by many newspapers in 1983. There was only one catch: Boskin made the whole thing up. It took a couple of weeks for the Associated Press to realize that they'd been victims of an April Fools' joke themselves.

I was born in the month of April and feel especially sensitive to the references made to April Fools. There were times in my life when I thought I was given an extra measure of the traits associated with fools. Without shame, I'll give you a couple examples. Have you ever been in conversation with someone and as you're speaking, you realize that what you are saying will undoubtedly be misconstrued or possibly even be offensive or hurtful to the other person. But for some unexplainable reason, you continue to talk and can't seem to stop the flow of words. In a split second the damage is done and you're left trying to lessen the impact or correct your mistake. Even after a sincere attempt at damage control, you can't stop the sensation of feeling bad and saying to yourself, "What a fool I am." There always seems to be that moment when you realize you must think before you speak. It's happened to me more times than I like to admit. But I know what that phenomenon is now, and I believe I have been improving over the years. Another good example is when we're young and we think our parents are fools and don't know anything. Soon enough we wake up older and come to understand that we were the fools to ever underestimate our parents. We may also find ourselves on the uncomfortable receiving end of that sentiment from our own children. Ah, with age comes wisdom. Or so they say.

The dictionary definition of fool is a person who lacks judgment, sense or understanding or one who acts unwisely on a given occasion. The opposite of fool is sage or wise one. There are many quotable quotes that reference fools. Abraham Lincoln said, "It is better to remain silent and be thought a fool than to open one's mouth and remove all doubt." I happen to be born on the same day as William Shakespeare who said, "A fool thinks himself to be wise, but a wise man knows himself to be a fool." And a last quote from Benjamin Franklin is, "Any fool can criticize, condemn and complain and most fools do." The Bible includes many passages that add insight to the meaning of the word fool. A few such verses are listed below, but the entire book should really be read to put each verse into proper context.

Romans 1:22 Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools,

Psalms 92:6 Senseless people do not know, fools do not understand.

Psalms 107:17 Some became fools through their rebellious ways and suffered affliction because of their iniquities.

Proverbs 1:7 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction.

Psalms 94:8 Take notice, you senseless ones among the people; you fools, when will you become wise?

Take note of the last verse above. What might be your answer to that question? Do you consider yourself to be wise? Are there people in your life that you believe to be sages? As humans, will we ever be able to consider ourselves truly wise?

No matter how we answer these questions or define the word fool for ourselves, it's pretty clear how the Lord sees the actions of fools. I believe we can begin to transform ourselves from fools to sages with prayer, Bible study and worship. Our wisdom will grow as we grow our relationship with God and learn the wisdom of God's ways. Thankfully, He is faithful to be patient and merciful while we realize our foolish ways and allow Him to guide our steps in this life. May God walk with you this Easter.

Your Lay Leader,
Kathy Russell
